Natural Landscapes and Conservation Activities reported by Active Rangers

The National Parks System is aimed at protecting representative natural landscapes of Japan, while also promoting recreation in nature. There are currently 34 National Parks in Japan, that are occupying about 2,180,000 hectares of total national land area.

The Chugoku-Shikoku Region has Daisen-Oki National Park, Setonaikai National Park and Ashizuri-Uwakai National Park, where visitors can find various natural features around 3 different Seas (the Sea of Japan, the Inland Sea of Japan & the Pacific Ocean). Each National Park has one or more Ranger Office/Station of the Ministry of the Environment. At these offices and stations, 10 Active Rangers are assisting Rangers for National Park management.

In this exhibition, Active Rangers will introduce great natural beauties and sceneries and conservation activities in the National Parks of the Chugoku-Shikoku Region through their pictures and panels.
